Meghan Wiley

BDS (UK), MFDS RCS(Ed)

Information for Patients

Meghan graduated from Newcastle University in 2005. After a further 2 years postgraduate training in both general practice and hospital dentistry she gained her Membership to the Faculty of Dental Surgeons qualification, MFDS.

Following this, she has furthered her experience and skills by working both in the NHS and private practice in the North East of England and Australia.

Meghan is a friendly compassionate dentist, who strives to help people overcome their anxiety of dentistry, whether it is for simple treatment or cosmetically improving the appearance of their smile and teeth. Being committed to continually develop her professional skills she is completed a twelve month course in restorative and cosmetic dentistry at Paul Tipton's academy in Manchester in 2010.

When not working, Meghan is keen on maintaining her personal fitness, with running, water sports, and going to the gym. She also likes socializing, dining and travelling when time allows.
